Just across the Missouri River from Bismarck, the Heskett coal plant releases unsafe levels of asthma-inducing smog into our air. Kids like James are forced to breathe in this pollution every day. It's time for the owner of Heskett, Montana Dakota-Utilities, to be a good neighbor and retire the outdated coal plant.

Visit content.sierraclub.org/coal/north-dakota/heskett for more information.
The Montana Dakota-Utilities company is “in the community to serve,” and the company just lived up to that reputation by committing to retire the outdated Heskett coal plant within the year. This will mean less pollution blowing into the Missouri River and fewer asthma attacks for North Dakotan families.