PROTECT THESE VIEWS FROM THIS
Dear EPA Region 8 Administrator Shaun McGrath,

Protect clean air in our national parks by rejecting Utah’s regional haze plan. Utah’s current regional haze plan allows Hunter and Huntington coal plants to continue to pollute, threatening public health and our public parks. The plan does not require modern controls, which could reduce emissions from the plants by up to 75%.

Hunter and Huntington coal plants are situated within the same airshed as Utah’s Big Five national parks: Arches, Canyonlands, Capitol Reef, Bryce and Zion. Protecting the air quality and views in these iconic parks is integral to the success of Utah’s tourism and recreation economy, the second largest industry in the state. Reject Utah’s inadequate plan for regional haze. Demand strong pollution controls to protect our health, national parks, and tourism industry.

Sincerely,
