ALL RISK, NO REWARD

WHY SHOULD WE PAY HIGHER BILLS TO BAIL OUT A DIRTY POWER PLANT IN INDIANA?
Leucadia’s coal gasification plant will cost Indiana families $1.1 billion in its first eight years, and will result in higher bills for Hoosier ratepayers.

Hoosier families, already dealing with toxic threats of coal, will be exposed to more pollution from yet another industrial source.

While Indiana families take on all the risk, an out-of-state Wall Street hedge fund will reap all of the profits.
